THE INDIANS OF ARIZONA—INDIAN TASTES—THE CIVILIZED PIMAS AND PAPAPOS, AND THE BARBARIC APACHES.

The following detail of interesting, and, to us, novel facts and characteristics in reference to the Indians of Arizona Territory have been gathered from the entertaining verbal report of a General officer lately serving in that quarter:

Nearly all the wild Indians of the Western plains are excessively fond of dog meat. When they desire to do their friends or 'dis-inquished strangers,' white or red, particular honor, they prepare and invite them to a grand 'dog feast,' a meal in which the flesh of the canine quadruped is served up in every style known to the Indian cuisine.

The Apaches, however, who differ from all other Indians in being the most cruel, treacherous, and blood-thirsty, also differ from them in placing mule meat first on their list of prime delicacies. They will go further, and fight harder, to steal or capture a good fat mule, than for anything else in the world. If a band of them steal your mule—they always kill you at the same time if they can—they at once hurry off to the nearest fitting place to camp, and cook and eat him as quickly as possible, for fear some unclucky chance may happen to deprive them of the delicious 'treat.'

In the Western and most fertile regions of Arizona dwell two tribes of Indians—the Pimas and PAPAPOS—natives rarely seen in the newspapers because they are lovers of peace and are friendly to the whites—who may be said to be quite, if not rather more than, semi-civilized. They—or many of them—live in houses, stay at home, and industriously work their farms. They always dress decently, and practice many of the arts of civilization.

The Apaches and Comanches stand in great dread of them, never, of late years, attempting to rob them or interfere with them in any way, the Pimas and PAPAPOS having invariably 'thrashed out' both of them when over they have given them just cause for war.

The Pimas and PAPAPOS live in one of the finest agricultural regions perhaps in the world, where they grow immense quantities of wheat and other cereals, by means of a cheap but most efficient system of irrigation taught them long ago by the Roman Catholic priests of the famous 'Missions' established there soon after the advent of Cortez and the Spanish 'conquistadores' into Mexico, three hundred years ago. The PAPAPOS are, in any difference, somewhat more civilized, wealthy and prosperous than their neighbors, the Pimas—the difference being caused probably by the fact that the PAPAPOS have the best country; that is, they have a more generous soil, larger and richer valleys and more of them, where they grow wheat and other breadstuffs in quantities, that not only suffice for their own abundant sustenance, but give them a large surplus to be used for purposes of barter or export, and to feed, and otherwise assist their neighbors in case of 'short crops,' and to accommodate trains of emigrants and troops passing through their country to and from California, New Mexico, and Sonora. The Pimas are also devoted to agriculture, and grow large crops of grain and other products adapted to the soil and climate of that fair, delightful land. There is little doubt, that these two confederally superior tribes of Arizona Indians—superior in physique, as well as in mind and morale—if kindly fostered and properly assisted by the gradual introduction of schools, manufactures, and other appliances of modern progress, might be speedily elevated to a degree of civilization never yet attained by any large bodies of North American Indians. The entire absence of the nomadic spirit, with other highly favorable characteristics and surroundings, leaves them fit subjects for truly philanthropic experiment.

The Apaches, we learn from the same well informed source, have no chiefs, properly speaking; that is, no war-chiefs. Their headmen are generally supernumerary 'braves,' who never leave their village camps in their mountain fastnesses, and exercise only a sort of civil or police authority, such as administering a rude kind of justice, and superintending the distribution of the 'spoils' brought in by the young braves from their perennial thieving raids and expeditions. For, your nunsances, named Apaches and Comanches, are the true 'Arabs,' par excellence, of the Western plains; only, they are far more cruel and bloody-minded than their Asian prototypes. In their roving, predatory habits, they are the true, lineal, incorrigible descendants of Ishmael; their hands being against every man's and every man's hand against theirs. The Apaches in their ceaseless plundering excursions later, rarely go in larger bodies than from twenty to thirty or forty—in fact, generally in small squads. This, coupled with the other fact of their never having any recognized military commander, renders them comparatively feeble in their operations, whether of massacre or plunder, though they never fail to combine the two when at all convenient. With a strict, or even partial military organization of all their fighting men, they might add a hundred fold to the many robberies and horrid butcheries they are constantly perpetrating in Arizona, Sonora, and New Mexico.

Speaking of using friendly Indians as allies in the operations of our troops against those who are hostile, General ——— states, from actual experiment, that they are almost totally unreliable and inefficient, not from a want of 'pluck,' or skill in the use of weapons—but by the way, nearly all the Indians of the West are as well armed as the whites—but, simply, on account of their excessive superstition, and the countless 'signs' and omens taught them by their prophets and 'medicine men,' which they dare not disregard. In the midst of a campaign, often at the critical moment when success, and even safety, depend upon their full co-operation, some one or other of their innumerable 'signs' or omens will be sure to be seen by them, which will at once cause them to turn right around and go back to camp in spite of all protests and remonstrances and even threats. In fact, they would suffer martyrdom before they would disobey one of their countless 'signs,' such as the croak of a raven, the flying of a buzzard across the line of march, the hooting of an owl, and the like—so ingrained into the very fibre of their natures, are the superstitions which enslave them.

POPULATION OF LONDON.—The result of the census of London, taken at midnight on Sunday, 2d April last, just announced, gives that great city three and a quarter millions of inhabitants—the exact figures being 3,251,801! The idea of taking the census in a single hour, and that hour midnight, seems a strange idea, but is doubtless a good one. But, why was the result kept back so long?

LOVE AND PASSION.—These are too often confounded. They are quite distinct. Love elevates and refines; passion degrades and depresses; love enlarges the heart; passion narrows the mind. And even in the case of what is called passionate love, there is too much which is of the earth—earthly. Pure affection is a sentiment free from taint of any kind, and is as rare as pure charity.

The funeral of Hon. C. L. Vallandigham last Tuesday, at Dayton, was the largest ever seen in Ohio. Five hundred lawyers, in a body, and one thousand Free Masons, from all parts of the State, were in the procession, which was over two miles long. Thousands, unable to join in the procession, nevertheless attended at the grave, to pay the last tribute of respect to the illustrious dead. Thousands, collected from almost every city and county in the State, who had been Mr. Vallandigham's bitterest political enemies in life, were there to manifest by their unfeigned sorrow that he was indeed a son of whom that great Commonwealth had just reason to be proud.

Hon. E. D. Stanfords was nominated for re-election to the Senate by the Democracy of Jefferson, in convention at Bruners-town, on Saturday—a merited endorsement of a most valuable Senator.

At the same time, E. P. Johnston was nominated for the Legislature, though we regret to note indications of an intention to put an independent candidate on the track.

W. B. M. Brooks, Esq., of Bullitt, was nominated by the Democracy of Bullitt and Spencer, in joint convention on Saturday, as the candidate for the Legislature from the district composed of those counties.

The corn crop throughout all this region of country, including, we doubt not, all of Central Kentucky, if not the whole State, never looked better or more promising than it does at this moment. On the road from Frankfort to Lexington it is particularly fine. The same may be said of oats, hemp, and all the growing crops.

OHIO DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—The Democratic State Central Committee of Ohio met at Columbus on the 21st, and organized by electing Chas. N. Allen, Chairman and Jas. S. Crall, Secretary. The following Executive Committee was appointed: A. G. Thurman, of Columbus; Jno. G. Jones, of Cincinnati; D. J. Callen, of Mercer; Jacob Rhinehart and Samuel Thompson, of Columbus. Resolutions of respect to the memory of C. L. Vallandigham and sympathy for his widow were adopted.

The Iowa Republicans have nominated C. C. Carpenter for Governor, and endorsed Grant and his "San Domingo job" out and out. Let no one deny that the Iowa Radicals have "plenty of sand in their gizzards," after that.

A negro named Graham, on examination, at Portland, Oregon, a few days ago, charged with seducing the daughter of a man named Ward, was shot dead by Ward as he stood on the witness stand giving his testimony.

Circuit Court.—The June term of the Franklin circuit court will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning. It is an equity and criminal term, and the docket is small. There are twenty-seven cases in equity, and three or four indictments for murder are pending.

MURDER.—The negro Anderson, who killed another negro named Mike Lindsay at Gen. Buford's farm on Sunday, has been found guilty of murder.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—The Lexington Press of yesterday gives an account of the robbery of Mr. Andrews, an old man of seventy five or eighty years, by a negro in open day on the Russell road, 1½ miles from that city and within sight of a residence. Says the Press: "Mr. Andrews had come to town in a buggy in the morning, and in the evening started home. On his way, he had to pass the house of Mr. William Ford, about 1½ miles from town on the Russell road. This is a very exposed point, a person standing in the road, having full view of it for over a hundred yards each way. Just as he got near the house, within, perhaps, a hundred yards of it, a negro jumped the fence and seized Mr. Andrews' horse by the bridle, stopped him, and demanded his money. Mr. Andrews replied that he had no money, not more than enough to pay his toll. The fellow became enraged at this, and rushed at Mr. Andrews, striking him upon the arm with a club which he carried in his hand. He then snatched at his watch, and succeeded, in carrying it off. Thinking that he had not done sufficient harm, he drew a knife and made a cut at his victim, cutting through the pants and drawers and grazing the skin. Mr. Andrews was very much frightened, and being an old man, seventy-five or eighty years of age, was unable to offer much resistance. It seems, however, that the horse was restive and the blow of the knife did not fall where it was intended. The ruffian then drew a pistol, but as he did so, the horse made a sudden start. The negro seized the top of the buggy and pulled it back, but the sudden dash of the horse threw him off, and Mr. Andrews escaped.

Mrs. Vallandigham has been in a very precarious condition ever since her husband's burial on Tuesday. Though under the constant care of two eminent physicians, she has been unconscious for several days. She has the sympathy of the whole country in her sad, double bereavement.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. John Shackelford, of the Kentucky University, will preach at the Methodist Church to-morrow (Sunday), morning and evening. The regular pastor, Rev. T. J. Dodd, is absent from the city.

Kentucky carried off eight premiums at the late tobacco fair in St. Louis—Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, and Missouri were represented.

Rev. S. A. Seare, pastor of Trinity Church, Louisville, has been presented by the members of the Trinity Social Society with a beautiful silver set, consisting of a pitcher, goblets, and tray, as a token of their admiration and regard for him as a clergyman.

Prince Napoleon (Jerome) "Plon-Plon," despairing of the future of France, talks of coming to this country, to spend the remainder of his days and a good part of his twenty millions of francs.

On Tuesday last we published the proceedings of the Democratic County Convention, which nominated J. C. S. Blackburn for the Legislature. By the proceedings published elsewhere it will be seen that a portion of those who formed the convention withdrew and nominated Ex-Gov. Thos. P. Porter, who has announced himself a candidate. It is to be regretted that such a split should have manifested itself in Woodford, and we hope it will be of short duration.

We want no better evidence of the good service Gen. Rodman is doing in the canvass than the savage way, the Radical editors are throwing dirt at him. Read also our Morganfield letter for further proof.

Gen. Breckinridge and Gen. Echols are to start to-morrow for a trip of a week or ten days along the route of the Lexington and Big Sandy Railroad.

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.—The trial of John J. Key, which has been in progress at Flemingsburg for some time, closed on Saturday last. The jury returned after an absence of a few minutes, and brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree. Judge Stanton had not pronounced sentence up to Monday last. It will be remembered that Key killed his father, in Mason county, some two years or more ago.

St. John's Day.—To-day is the anniversary of St. John, the Baptist. It will be observed by the Ascension Church of this city. Services at live o'clock this afternoon.

The jury in the case of McGeehan for the murder of Myers—in which Mr. Vallandigham was engaged as counsel for the defendant at the time of his fatal accident—failed to agree, and had to be discharged.

LOUISVILLE AS THE GREAT MANUFACTURING AND DISTRIBUTING CENTER OF THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.—THE GREAT LAND SALE MONDAY, JULY 10, 1871.

Few of our people have ever stopped to reflect upon the many sacrifices hitherto, and at all times, necessary to be made by the great city of Louisville, in her efforts to deal justly with the people of the South and Southwest, and at the same time compete with the large manufacturing cities of this country, in the power wielded by and derived from dense and overcrowded working populations, on all sides her competitors. A period has, however, arrived in the history of the Falls City when the gigantic efforts put forth by her enterprising citizens demonstrate, beyond a doubt, that her destiny embraces within its scope the great fact, that henceforth she is to be the commercial, manufacturing, and distributing emporium of the South and Southwest.

More might truly be here stated, in confirmation of the statements above made, but as our deductions and predictions are based upon the announcement made in another column, descriptive of the greatest sale of beautiful and desirable suburban property ever falling under our notice, we are content to let our readers judge for themselves. No city in the country possesses similar property, or ever again will afford the opportunities now presented for the investment of capital, and we predict that this great sale is the forerunner to the investment of millions of dollars in manufacturing and mechanical establishments, wherein will be employed the many thousands for whom Louisville is determined to provide comfortable and healthy homes.

The property to be sold at this great Trustee Sale, is situated two squares south of Broadway, and extends from Twenty-sixth to Thirty-eighth street. Railroad facilities and every necessary convenience are features of the section of the city in which it is located.

"He who runs may read," and the stern facts briefly alluded to in this article should at once awaken the people of this entire State to the great opportunity here presented, to invest their spare capital in a manner that cannot fail to produce greater pecuniary profits than any investment ever offered.

The progress made by the city of Louisville in every department of material wealth, manufacturing, and commerce excites the envy of her rivals to an extent never before displayed.

The great Trustee Sale of "Parkland Subdivision," as set forth in another part of this paper, deserves the closest attention of the citizens of this Commonwealth in a greater degree than is probably imagined. While it is true, that we desire as many to come from other States as may choose, yet we want the people of Kentucky to be identified with Louisville's great future. Follow our advice—attend this great sale—and at any time prior to the day of sale, July 10th, 1871, call upon or address W. H. Beynroth, Esq., Trustee, or Morris, Southwick & Co., Auctioneers, Nos. 64 and 66 West Jefferson street, Louisville, Kentucky, and you can procure, gratuitously, maps, pamphlets, &c., containing information that deeply concerns the prosperity of every man, woman, and child in this State.

MEETING OF OWEN COUNTY DELEGATES.—The delegates to the Democratic Convention which convened in the city of Frankfort, May 3, 1871, in obedience to a call of the Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, met in Owen County, June 19, county court day, for the purpose of considering what action they would take relative to the office of Register of the Land Office.

J. D. Lillard offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That, in the opinion of the delegates to the May Convention, J. A. Grant was duly elected to the office of Register of the Land Office, and ought to have been so declared; therefore, we respectfully ask the Central Committee to place J. Alexander Grant upon the State ticket for said office.

On motion, the proceedings of this meeting are ordered to be published in the Louisville Ledger, Owen News, Louisville Courier-Journal, and Frankfort Yeoman.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES—LETTER FROM HON. Z. F. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
OFFICE SECT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
FRANKFORT, June 19, 1871.

Messrs. Editors:

Permit me, through your columns, to make a last and urgent appeal to the School Commissioners and interested friends of common schools in this Commonwealth, to make immediate arrangements for holding Teachers' Institutes during the months of July and August. This duty is clearly and imperatively enjoined by the law, while the necessities of popular education in our State make it important, if not indispensable, that these Institutes should be held, annually, without failure.

The Commissioner of a county cannot omit or neglect this duty without great injury and injustice to the interests intrusted to his charge; and a good Institute, once held and conducted by able and experienced teachers in a county, will demonstrate their utility and necessity for the future.

I will engage to supply a competent and experienced teacher, well provided with maps, charts, apparatus, and all instruments and means of illustrating and demonstrating the science of teaching, to any School Commissioner who will apply; and arrangements have been made by Professor P. A. Towne, of Louisville, Ky., assisted by Professor J. B. Reynolds, Principal of the Third Ward School, and Professor Hiram Berts, Principal of the Normal Training School, of Louisville, to do the same.

Let the response be prompt, and from every unprovided county. I call attention to the following suggestions, of a most practical character, just published, from the able pen of Professor Reynolds.

Z. F. SMITH,
Supt. Public Instruction.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.

The season is rapidly approaching when teachers ought carefully to review their work, form plans for the coming year, and pay special attention to their own professional improvement. Nowhere else can this be so thoroughly done as at the Teachers' Institute. A standard is there set up by which work of past days may be measured, future work estimated and prepared for. It is therefore proper for teachers to look forward to their County Institute with considerable interest, and Commissioners should be maturing their plans so as to obtain the best possible results in a given time. The following suggestions are made for the purpose of directing attention to this matter and assisting all concerned to look over this field in advance:

The Institutes are feasible, and in the absence of normal schools very desirable, are assumed as postulates; the points now to be considered are when and how they shall be held. As there are seven weeks vacation after the fourth of July, so there may be seven weeks of Institute work, and the State might be divided into Institute districts, so that those instructors, and they are few enough, who are willing to devote their time to this work, may be continuously employed. In some counties the Institutes should begin early in July, in others one week later, and so on, so no two adjacent counties having them at the same time. The advantages of such an arrangement are very manifest; and that there shall be no clashing of dates, the State Superintendent ought to arrange the times suitable for the County Commissioners. It is of the utmost importance, may, absolutely essential to complete success, that the Commissioners and the Superintendent be in perfect accord as to dates; for he may be able to send just such help as is needed, and personally to assist in the arrangement of the Institute. Each teacher expected to conduct a class-room in any branch should be notified of the date of the Institute, not less than two weeks before institute-work, so that the plan of his lesson may not be crude, hastily snatched up, but well prepared, worked out in the school-room, and clearly presented. That these plans should be most profitably considered by the members of the Institute, a systematic discussion of their merits or demerits should immediately follow, and persons should be selected to begin these discussions of method, who would be prompt to notice every point, both good and bad, and who could readily refer a method to such principles of mental science as had been previously taught, or as are well understood. All criticism to be beneficial must be honest and friendly. Much prominence ought to be given to instruction in the laws of mental action, and it will be far more difficult to obtain a competent instructor in this branch than in any other. In many instances the task will devolve entirely upon the Commissioner himself, and happy will it be if he is thoroughly competent; for in a clear understanding of the philosophy of instruction lies the germ of improvement of the members of the Institute.

Good instructors in arithmetic, geography, penmanship, and reading, can generally be obtained, and the teachers should daily receive progressive lessons in these branches; but every lesson given ought to illustrate the best methods of teaching in the advanced grades. The day should be divided into half-hour intervals, with intermissions and recesses at appropriate times. There should be opening exercises at 8:30, sharp, every morning, and a roll carefully kept with all tardiness and absences plainly shown. An earnest Commissioner can, by using the means at his disposal, succeed in inducing the majority of his teachers to be punctual, and to take pleasure in the performance of their assigned duties. Subjects for essays should be given to those teachers who are not charged with instruction lessons; committees appointed to prepare reports on different topics, and provision made for discussion of such reports. If good teachers of gymnastics and elocution can be secured, they will pay for themselves by the increased attendance, and by the exhibition at the close of the session, at which might be presented such historic and gymnastic exercises, interspersed with music, as should be thought acceptable. The social character of the Institute should be kept in mind by the managers. The different professional men of the county ought to be invited to participate in the daily exercises, and to contribute to the evening entertainments; by lectures upon educational or scientific topics; and as far as possible, the citizens should be solicited to pledge in advance their hospitality to those coming from a distance; the courtesy of radiating lines of railroads should also be secured. Committees should be appointed by the Commissioner to perfect these arrangements, and to welcome strangers, and help or take them to pleasant stopping-places immediately upon arrival.

As to funds, for some will be needed, if the County Commissioners will make an appropriation, all right; the membership fee can be placed at a lower figure. If no appropriation be made, the teachers attending the Institute ought each one to pay a fee, say one dollar and a half to two dollars for ladies, and two to three dollars for gentlemen. The money so invested in an institute of this kind will yield fabulous returns; perhaps a thousand per cent, in the course of a year. Let all go to work with a will, teachers and Commissioners, and it will be impossible to estimate the good results which will surely follow a universal, energetic effort for professional improvement. "Onward, let the watchword be."

A RELIC OF BLOODY MONDAY.—The Board of Aldermen last night allowed the claim of Mrs. E. Aulsebrook for $5,000, and that of Honora Maloney for $750, both for property destroyed on Bloody Monday. These amounts, added to the Ambuster claim, already paid, foot up $25,750 which the city has consented to disburse as a reparation for property destroyed on that day.—Louisville Ledger.

OBITUARY.
In memory of S. S. Collins, of Anderson county, who died 19th February, 1871.
The silver cord is loosed,
The golden bowl is broken;
A father's smiles are unused,
His last good-bye is spoken.
A father sleeps in his narrow bed,
O'er him the ivy is creeping;
Though he lies low under the sod,
He is not dead, but sleeping.
A father his dear ones meet no more
Around the family hearth;
He has gone to meet the Heavenly One
Who called him from the earth.
A father's voice is hushed to rest,
We cease to hear its sound;
A father's counsel no longer heard;
He sleeps 'neath a new-made mound.
He has left us, but his spirit
A Guardian Angel has become,
And around our steps he'll linger,
Waiting to convey us home,
A mother and her little group,
When assembled together at home,
To find no cheerful father,
Will feel very sad and lone.
And tears, perhaps, will mingle
With the hearts so full of woe;
The orphan and the widow
A father's love must know.
But should they weep in sorrow
For the one who has gone before,
Though none can fill the vacant chair
This side the Eternal Shore?
No! He who called him from this world
Has claimed him for His own,
And bore him from a wicked clime
To enjoy a Heavenly Home.
And when Death shall freeze the fountain
When the streets of life flow,
And our forms that now are active
'Neath the soil are lying low,
May our ransomed souls in Heaven
'Round the Throne of God be found,
While the loved ones join our number,
And our hearts in concert sound.

NILSSON'S INTENDED.

Those who occupied seats near the stage at the Nilsson concert in this city may have observed two gentlemen, evidently foreigners, who entered the hall from the green-room door, and were assigned chairs immediately in front of the stage. The older of the two was Colonel Snow of the British army; the younger, Augustus Nilsson, the famous singer. He is a Parisian, young, modest and manly. His face is fresh and amiable, and his manners are easy and retiring. He wore at the concert in this city an ordinary English traveling suit, and, by the cut of his whiskers, looked the Londoner more than the Frenchman.

He was a breaker in Paris before the war began between France and Germany, and during the siege did duty on the ramparts of the city. With the fall of the city and the rise of the Commune, the commercial marts of London attracted him thither, but it was very natural indeed—there was a still greater attraction on this side of the sea, and he took passage with Colonel Snow on the Scotia, which arrived at New York about May 1st.

Rouard, it is said, will engage in mercantile pursuits in New York. He is moderately well off, and, being a man, proposes to support himself. The engagement between him and Christine has existed for several years, and is purely a love match. He and Col. Snow are at present enjoying the West Point Gayeties with Miss Nilsson, and they will accompany her to this city next week when she sings for the Swedish churches.—Chicago Post, June 9.

'Gwine to Holl on a Black Mule.'

A citizen of South Carolina furnishes an exchange a graphic description of the frightful orgies with which, in the name of worship, the negroes of his region desecrate their churches and insult the Almighty Ruler of the universe. We extract this paragraph from his account:

"Their manner of conducting religious services is not only a nuisance to those who live near, but it is a mockery and an insult to him for whom their temples have been built. Let any one who has not heard these howling derisions in their orgies, draw near some night and listen. A few moments will suffice to convince and disgust. At a recent attendance of this abominable mockery of religious services, we heard a whining voice sing out, 'Gwine to heben on a white horse.' Another jumped up and echoed, 'Bless de Lord, here's a poor sister gwine to heben on a black mule.' One raises her hand, and with her eyes fixed on the ceiling, screams, 'I see Jesus a lookin at me.' Another replies, 'I see Him too, a lookin out de window at me.' Another cries out, 'Bless de Lord, tell Jesus to send down a rope, an I'll climb up to heben.' This last idea strikes a dozen or more with force, and they jump up and down, shouting, 'Send down de rope, and we'll all climb to heben.'

A SCHOOL-BOY'S COMPOSITION ON THE BELL FROG. The bull frog is green. If I could jump like one I could beat a pig or two pigs. Frogs is a bald-headed animal, but he can't draw timber for a meeth-house.

Frog it would hurt me to stand on my head and to see the Presidents worin in. Jane Martin wears a red dress and hoopled at me when I didn't know it. It scared me so I jumped to. If frogs could run with a fire machine it would be fun to go to, for they are all Baptists. When they growl they don't like. Mother melted the bottom out of her tea-pot, and Lordy, how did it sizzle about it. Gee, have more feathers than young frogs; but geese don't give milk. Nor does a wild frog. When ashes are worth fifteen cents a bushel is the best time to go frogging. Little frogs peep, but who are afraid? Scrambled frogs are nice in cold coffee, but as for me, give me liberty or death, but no frogs or a revolution in France. I'm goin' to sell my dog, and see how if he won't fetch anything. Frogs never have the mumps, but they always come with a spring.

WONDERFUL SAGACITY OF A DOG.—The following story, strange as it may appear, is vouched by several witnesses whose testimony is unimpeachable. A short time ago a female Newfoundland dog was in the habit of coming to the house of a lady in this city, who would throw to it pieces of cold meat, which the dog would eat, and playing satisfied its hunger, go away again. So continued had this habit become, that, at a certain hour daily, the lady would expect the dog, and the animal would put in an appearance. A few days ago, before feeding her, the lady said to her: "Why don't you bring me one of your puppies?" "If I was to the question several times she stood at the window, the dog looking at her in the face with an expression of intelligence, as if it understood every word the lady said. The next day, to the lady's astonishment, at the usual hour, the dog returned, and, lo, and behold! it was accompanied by a little puppy.

The lady fed both dogs, and then took up the puppy into the window, when the old dog scampered off and did not return for three days. At the end of that time the dog again appeared, when, after feeding it, the lady said: "Next time bring all your puppies. I want to see them!" and yesterday morning, sure enough, the dog returned, accompanied by three Newfoundland pups. Several of the neighbors saw the whole transaction, and declared that they considered this one of the most wonderful proofs of the sagacity of the dog they have ever known. Where the dog came from, and to whom it belongs, is not known; but we have the name of the lady, and also of those who were eye-witnesses to the occurrences as narrated by us.

Farmers are apt to feed too much corn to their hogs, and then complain because they rarely, if ever, get price enough for their hogs at killing time from the buyers, and say that costs so much to fatten them, that hog raising is unprofitable. If they will feed more grass and less corn they will find it an improvement that will add to the profits. Feeding stock with grass or other green fodder while it is kept up, is coming rapidly into practice, especially in towns where pasturage is inconvenient, and among dairymen, and orchard grass is pronounced one of the best things to raise for that purpose. The seed is not generally for sale at stores, but dealers would obtain it if the demand should require it. It yields bountifully, makes good hay, and is easily cultivated, but should be sown thickly as it has a tendency to grow in bunches.

ANTIDOTE FOR POISON.—A farmer writes thus: "It is now over twenty years since I learned that sweet oil would cure the bite of a rattlesnake, not knowing it would cure other kinds of poison. Practice, observation, and experience have taught me that it will cure poison of any kind, both on man and beast. To cure a horse, it requires eight times as much as for a man. One of the most extreme cases of snake bites occurred eleven years ago. It had been thirty days standing, and the patient had been given up by his physician. I gave him a spoonful of the oil, which effected a cure. It will cure blot in cattle by fresh clover. It will cure the sting of bees, spiders, or other insects, and persons who have been poisoned by a low running vine called ivy."—Cleveland Banner.

Carbolic acid is highly recommended to destroy the worm in peach trees, and also to drive off the codling moth, tent caterpillars, and other pests of the apple orchard. Carbolic acid is mixed with soft soap, made thin enough to work well, with kitchen or house slops, and applied to the trees with a brush. A dime's worth of the liquid acid will be enough for a dozen trees when well stirred in with soft soap and water. A little fresh lime would doubtless also be an advantage.

"January," a New York gambler, being hit broke one night, put a lozenge on the queen, and the dealer, mistaking it for a split check, paid the bet. From this beginning he took $1,500 out of the bank that night.
